New York, March 24.-More lengthy documents for the guidance of the court in its decision on the application of District Attorney Jerome for a commission to inquire into the mental status of Harry K. Thaw at the present time will be handed to Judge Fitzgerald to-morrow morning. This is the result of a busy morning's work put in to-day by Jerome and Assistant District Attorney Garvan for the prosecution, and Hartridge and O'Reilly, of the prisoner's corps of lawyers.

Garvan was waiting for his chief when the latter arrived at his office in the Criminal Courts building about 11 o'clock. So were also a trio of stenographers, who were told on Saturday to make no engagements for Sunday, as their services Jerome reached his office he and Garvan got busy on a mass of papers and law books containing citations bearing on the application for the lunacy comm and began at once dictating a long state-ment in support of the application. Several drafts of this statement were pre pared by the stenographers, but it was after 2 o'clock before Jerome and Garvan had completed the final revision and decided to knock off work for the day.

Jerome intimated, however, that the statement would be made public to-morrow.

In nine of the affidavits filed by the allenses for the defense the experts go beyond the point of declaring that Thaw is at the present time table. No one of the allenses for the defense, it was remarked, and made the positive assertion in his affidavit that Thaw is at the present time safe.

Thaw did not seem at all jarred by the reiterated reports of conflict among his lawyers, and was in unusually good spirits all day.
